TNT SPORTS EXTENDS AMBITIOUS COMMONWEALTH GAMES COVERAGE PLANS BY PARTNERING WITH PUBLIC SERVICE BROADCASTER 5

- Plans will bring Glasgow 2026 to audiences across the United Kingdom
- Exclusive English-language free-to-air partner 5 will offer extensive daily highlights from the Games
- Every medal broadcast exclusively live available at no extra cost to HBO Max subscribers, starting from £4.99 (HBO Max Basic with Ads plan) in the UK

In an extension of its plans to deliver world-class coverage of Commonwealth Games Glasgow 2026, TNT Sports* has today announced a new partnership with public service broadcaster 5 to help bring the event to the widest possible audiences in the United Kingdom. 5 will present extensive daily highlights as the exclusive English-language free-to-air partner for this summer's Games.

The free-to-air coverage will complement TNT Sports' offering of every medal being screened exclusively live on its linear channels and streaming platform - HBO Max – with Glasgow 2026 available to watch for all subscribers, starting from £4.99 a month via the HBO Max Basic with Ads plan in the United Kingdom.

Scott Young, EVP WBD Sports Europe, said: “Our partnership with 5 represents another example of TNT Sports engaging dedicated sports fans and wider audiences around the sports properties that we are privileged to showcase. By making Glasgow 2026 available to all HBO Max subscribers and highlights to 5's audience, we will help the Games reach a broad and passionate audience across every platform, ensuring fans can connect with the event and all the moments that matter.

“By presenting every medal broadcast through HBO Max, extensive coverage on TNT Sports' own dedicated channels and highlights in partnership with 5, audiences will be offered the choice and flexibility to enjoy the very best of the Games, whenever and however they choose to watch.”

Ben Frow, Chief Content Officer at 5, said: “The Commonwealth Games is one of the standout events in a fantastic summer of sport this year, and here at 5 we're delighted to be working with TNT Sports to bring the biggest sports stars - from Adam Peaty to Amy Hunt and Dina Asher-Smith - to a free-to-air audience in the UK. We'll be bringing extended highlights of all the action from Glasgow every day, live and streaming on 5 as part of a growing line up of sport.”

Phil Batty OBE, Chief Executive of Glasgow 2026, said: "The excitement for Glasgow 2026 is building and we know how much sports fans across the UK are looking forward to Games next month. We want as many fans as possible to watch and enjoy every moment. The partnership with 5 will bring Glasgow 2026 to millions of viewers for free and with subscription packages for TNT Sports starting from as little as £4.99, there are lots of ways for people across the UK to watch and experience the Games."

Katie Sadleir, CEO of Commonwealth Sport said: "We're delighted to welcome 5 as our free-to-air highlights broadcaster in the UK for Glasgow 2026. Together with TNT Sports, 5 will help bring the excitement of the Commonwealth Games to audiences across the UK, showcasing the brilliant athletes, inspiring stories and unforgettable moments that make the Games unique. Fans up and down the country will be able to follow the action as competitors from across the Commonwealth take centre stage in Glasgow.

"With key moments and highlights available on 5, comprehensive live coverage on TNT Sports and every moment streamed on HBO Max, fans will be able to enjoy Glasgow 2026 wherever and however they choose to watch."

In December last year, Commonwealth Sport announced WBD had secured the live linear and digital media rights to broadcast Glasgow 2026 with TNT Sports bringing around 600 hours of live coverage to audiences across the United Kingdom. The 23rd edition of the Commonwealth Games will welcome 3,000 athletes from 74 nations and territories between 23 July and 2 August. Subsequently, 5 was awarded the rights to show highlights of the Commonwealth Games as the result of a competitive tender process. 5 has a growing reputation for live sport, and in the last 12 months has been the free-to-air home of some of the world's most exciting sporting events – including the NFL Super Bowl, the FIFA Club World Cup, England T20 cricket internationals, and snooker's Players and Tour Championships.

Warner Bros. Discovery has long experience of optimising distribution of major sporting events to reach broad audiences through its own coverage and via free-to-air partnerships. This includes its Olympic Games agreement with the BBC up to the Olympic Games Paris 2024 Olympic Games, as well as select key PREM Rugby fixtures on ITV, demonstrating the longstanding commitment and ability to maximising audience reach for premium sports content.
